OPENING OF THE NEW BAPTIST CHURCH

Tomorrow, Sunday, October 14th, will be a memorable day for the Baptist community and for the entire community. It is a day that will be long remembered and one that will go down in the city's history as an epochal one because it is an undisturbable work, and it has David Smith's name on it. It is to bring to fruition the work which his predecessor had gotten so well underway.

Now that the church building is ready for occupancy, and after several postponements, due to inability of the contractor to get the building ready, the first services will be held in the church tomorrow and the Sunday school plant will be occupied at ten o'clock tomorrow morning, every department having ample facilities and adequate quarters for their classes. At the morning hour the services will be in charge of the pastor, and at the evening hour, a great union service will be held at which Dr. W. M. Harris, the former pastor who is now visiting in the city, will preach. At this union service the members of the other churches of the city will join with the Baptist congregation in their hour of worship and rejoicing over completion of the new edifice.

As a congregation, it is but natural that at this particular time the Baptists are perhaps the happiest people in the city, as they can once more gather together under the roof of their own structure to worship and conduct their regular Sunday school and other services, after utilizing for many months the Court House auditorium, the Rose and Grand Theatre auditoriums and the East Side school building for the various services.

As a community, the citizenry of Thomasville rejoices with the brethren of the Baptist church and congratulates them upon their achievement in bringing to a realization their dream of such an adequate and handsome house of worship.

While every member of the church has worked untiringly for the new church building, upon the building committee has fallen the bulk of the labors for the past year or more and especially for the nine months or more since actual construction work began. As chairman of this committee, Mr. Melvin H. Goodwin has been ever vigilant to the interests of the congregation in co-operation with the architect and contractor in the work and giving personal supervision to the hundreds of matters that have cropped up during the erection of the building.

Now that the edifice is to be formally thrown open the hour for rejoicing has arrived and another page in the history of the Baptist church in Thomasville which was first formally organized on January 11, 1849, is about to be turned backward, commemorating as it will another progressive step in the onward march of the church.

VISITORS NO MATCH FOR LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM

Yaughn at the other half can always be depended upon to be in the thick of the game and make a gain when it is needed. This foursome is the best the high school here has ever known in the opinion of practically everyone.

The line worked well. Vann and Chastain at tackles were always getting their toes and neck that Sylvester made only one first down is enough to say about any line in the country. Mitchell and Fagan at guards were repeatedly breaking through and snearing the Sylvester backs for losses and Parks at center was as good as any of the rest of them on the offense and defense.

Drake and Davis at ends proved themselves able pass catchers and not a single gain was made around either end as long as these two were at the flanks.

Among the subs who shone was Robert McDonald. It was his first chance and he made good. His first run of fifteen yards for a touchdown was a remarkable one, but the second run of forty yards with a returned punt was even more so. His interesting pass was good, but his kicking helped him a great deal.

Greer did the expected in getting away for the usual run for a touchdown. It is getting to be a habit with this speedy youngster to run around end for a long yardage to the touch-was out of the game and proved himself worthy to go against almost any sort of opponent.

Braxwell was sent into the game for a few minutes towards the last and showed the same sort of performance that characterized his play during the latter part of last season. His injuries are healing and he will be able to play quite a bit this season.

For Sylvester there was only one outstanding star and that was New at half back and end. He was in every play and was the only man able to gain through the Bulldog's forward wall. He snared several of the Bulldog's losses and showed himself to be a real end and a better half back.

Coach Harper stated that he "was delighted with the outcome of the game, but did not discount the fact that Sylvester was weak yesterday."

He was particularly pleased with his recovery and his line. His varsity backs did what he expected and knew they could do.

The crowd at the game was fair but enthusiastic. The following is the line up and substitutions during the game:
